Dear Christ Episcopal Church Congregation,

Music is a universal language. Freeing. Grounding. Inspiring.

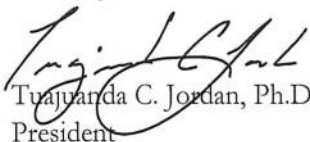

At St. Mary's College of Maryland, The National Public Honors College, we value our liberal arts foundation. Liberal arts is about diversity of thought and expression, creativity, and respect for self and others. Our college teaches students how to express themselves in order to add color and life to our world in a way that only each unique individual can.

In this spirit of creativity, I invite you to attend the inaugural Mulberry Music Festival – Act I at St. Mary's College of Maryland on Friday, June 14, 2019, from 6 - 9 p.m. The purpose of the festival, which kicks off St. Mary's County Heritage Weekend, is to bring people together around the universal language that is music. This year's festival will showcase music that is uplifting, comforting, and unifying. It will feature chart-topping gospel recording artist Jason Nelson and a diverse lineup of local musicians including the St. Peter Claver Gospel Choir, Dominion Apostolic Choral, SouthPoint Church, John Tillery and Living Sacrifice, Posse 4 Christ, Ministerio Amor en Cristo (Ministry of Love in Christ), and St. Luke's of Scotland Choir. It is free and open to all.

The festival will be held on the Townhouse Greens of St. Mary's College, overlooking the river. Bring your lawn chair, blanket, family, and friends, and prepare to be inspired. Food and craft vendors, as well as community resource tables, will be onsite.

I look forward to seeing you there!

Sincerely,

Tawanda C. Jordan, Ph.D.
President

REFLECTIONS ON THIS SUNDAY'S READINGS

(JUNE 2, 2019) THE SEVENTH SUNDAY OF EASTER—YEAR C

Welcome to Christ Church. This Sunday we begin the final week of celebrating the victory Christ won over sin and death at Easter.

There were three aspects to that victory: Jesus' resurrection, his ascension into heaven, and his sending the Holy Spirit. Last Thursday the church celebrated the Ascension and in today's liturgy it is commemorated again. However, added to that is the theme of waiting for the Holy Spirit to come upon the church, empowering it for ministry.

Today's gospel reading is a portion of the "high priestly prayer" of Jesus for all his followers. This prayer, which he offered on the night before his death, was fulfilled at Easter. That unity between him and us for which he prayed was accomplished in the resurrection, ascension, and giving of the Spirit. We become united in his Spirit and his love by means of Holy Baptism and Holy Eucharist.

In our reading from Acts today, we hear how powerfully God's Spirit was at work in Paul and his friends. He and Silas were rescued from prison by an earthquake. As a result, the jailer was so impressed that he listened to their message, believed, and was baptized along with his family. The second reading is the concluding verses of Revelation in which the Lord's promise to return is anticipated.

Today's liturgy, then, looks forward to next Sunday when we celebrate God's presence with us in the Holy Spirit and the Spirit's gifts to us, equipping us to make Christ known to all people.

BULLETIN INSERTS

June 2, 2019 – Easter 7 (C)

Meet Our Missionaries: Thomas McGowan, Episcopal Volunteers in Mission

An update from Thomas McGowan, an Episcopal Volunteer in Mission (EVIM) missionary serving in the Diocese of the Dominican Republic:

In my mission work, I serve as a consultant to the school board for the Diocese of the Dominican Republic. My placement involves two locations, so “a normal day” varies depending on where I’m located. I travel to the Dominican Republic 4-5 times per year, for about 2-3 weeks each trip. While I’m here, I coordinate professional development workshops for an education mission team that I’ve recruited, visit schools, attend meetings of the school board, work on long-term planning projects, and do consultant work on particular projects. Bishop Moises Quezada Mota has identified school improvement as a major goal for his episcopate. My work benefits greatly from his unwavering support.

When in Nebraska, my work as a consultant continues via distance; I regularly communicate with my Dominican colleagues. They rank among the finest educators I have ever worked with. I also have recently assumed the directorship of a Nebraska-based non-profit organization, Colegio Kids, which raises money for scholarships for students in Episcopal schools. I also am increasingly involved in grant writing to raise funds for school improvement projects in the D.R.

Why did you choose to serve as an Episcopal Volunteer in Mission?

About 10 years ago (while a university administrator), I suffered a medical event — during a faculty meeting, I collapsed after going into cardiac arrest. I now have a pacemaker and my health is fine. So good, in fact, that the surgeon who implanted the device said: “I don’t know if you’re the luckiest man in the world, but you’re the luckiest guy I ever met.” Seems that the chances of surviving such an event without brain or major organ damage (as I did) is about 2%. I explained to the doctor that I believed my survival had nothing to do with luck; it was a blessing. Upon retirement, I looked for ways in which I might give back and share my blessing with others.

Long-time Episcopal missionaries to the D.R. Bob and Ellen Snow retired to our church in Lincoln, Nebraska. I talked about my need to “give back” and they suggested that I accompany them to the annual convention of the Dominican Diocese and “poke around” to see if I might help with efforts to improve the Episcopal schools, particularly transforming 26 schools serving over 6,500 students into something approaching an educational system. The bishop at that time, Rvdsmo. Julio Holguin, encouraged me; his successor, Obispo Moises Quezada Mota, has embraced my work; the educational leadership team here have become true colleagues. The rest, as they say, is history.

How can we pray for you and the people you work with?

One thing immediately comes to mind: I blog almost daily while in the D.R. and on a regular basis while in Nebraska. Check-in with my postings so you can get a better sense of what’s happening here and how my work as a school improvement consultant is proceeding. I ask for prayers for particular initiatives from time to time.

Prayers for continued good health, safe travels for the professional development team as we travel by “guagua” (van) from one end of the diocese to the other and increased resources for school improvement would be welcomed. Mostly, keep the Dominican diocese in your thoughts and prayers as they continue to grow and spread the Good News in this corner of the Caribbean and beyond.

You can continue to follow and find out about Thomas’ mission on his blog at mccgowandr.wordpress.com. Learn more about Episcopal Volunteers in Mission at bit.ly/EVIMepiscopal.
